
Muhammad Ali? New York City? Michael Jordan? These are the names of people who are stars not only in their own right, but across the world. People who have achieved greatness through skill, talent, and determination. However, what if I were to tell you there is one athlete out there that is more famous than any other athlete on the planet - even Muhammad Ali? This person has traveled all around the globe to conquer an event no one thought humanly possible. He has won time and again against all odds, despite being shot in his tibia during a tournament once again just before winning again. His feats have been so great that his name has been written in the stars. He has taken over the world and there is no where he can't go or nothing he can't do. So how is it possible? His name is Eddie Guerrero. But wait? Who was Eddie? Why is he such a great wrestler and famous across the world? Let's find out. Edgardo Guerrero Llanes was born on November 9, 1967, in El Paso, Texas. While attending Milwee Middle School and Brigham Young High School in Provo, Utah, Eddie excelled at sports and other extracurricular activities. Jonathan Ochoa and Brady Boone were his best friends since the 8th grade. When he went to BYU for college, he joined the BYU Wrestling team as a walk-on and worked hard until his position was guaranteed. He also played soccer as BYU starting center forward. Eddie Guerrero rose to the top of the professional wrestling world in 1996 after winning his first IWGP Heavyweight Championship, defeating Jushin Liger. He continued to win championships with the company, winning the WCW World Heavyweight title, WWE Tag Team Championships with Rey Mysterio Jr., and even a Hardcore Championship. He was also given the opportunity to host "Raw Is War", and became a popular fan favorite. Today he is one of the most well known wrestlers in wrestling history and his name has been written into history. His career and accomplishments were made legendary after he died at just 36 years old on November 13, 2005 because of heart failure brought on by acute myocarditis. Eddie Guerrero had three brothers, all of whom are wrestlers. One, Chavo Guerrero Jr., worked with him on occasion in World Wrestling Entertainment. Another is Hector Guerrero, who was born with Down syndrome and uses a wheelchair. The third is "Luchador" Gory Guerrero, who used to wrestle as El Gran Luchador until his death on January 10, 2007. <https://archive.is/20130526042602/http://www.britannica.com/EBchecked/topic/335767/Guerrero-de-la-Fatal-Faction> <https://www.facebook.com/profile>.
